

Joint Committee on Intercollegiate Examinations

INTERCOLLEGIATE SPECIALTY BOARD IN PAEDIATRIC SURGERY

In accordance with the GMC's Standards for Curricula and Assessment System (Standard 10) 'examiners will be recruited against criteria for performing the tasks they undertake'.

CONDITIONS OF APPOINTMENT

Examiners will be appointed, in open competition, by each Specialty Board after consideration of applications received in response to advertisements placed in College Journals and via the Specialty Associations (or otherwise) and approved by the Joint Committee on Intercollegiate Examinations. Appointments are for a period of 5 years commencing from the date of their first examination. Examiners who complete 5 years on the Panel may be invited, at the discretion of the Board, to continue for a further and final period of up to 5 years. Appointment to the Panel Examiners would preclude the Examiner from any involvement or participation in crammer examination revision courses and applicants must be prepared to relinquish any such involvement. However, the rule does not preclude Examiners from lecturing at courses or from teaching their own trainees as part of their normal training commitment. In such circumstances Examiners would not examine their own trainees in the examination. Examiners will automatically retire from the Panel of Examiners when they undertake less than 5 PAs in the NHS or equivalent in Ireland. In exceptional circumstances, however, an established examiner who no longer undertakes 5 PAs in the NHS or equivalent in Ireland may be allowed to continue as an examiner after consideration by the Board and approval of the Chairman of JCIE. Examiners who retire from clinical practice are permitted to continue to examine for three years' post-retirement.

Any Examiner who has been appointed but is on long term sick leave or is under investigation by the GMC/IMC/NHS Trust/Employing body or who has been suspended from clinical practice for whatever reason must not take part in an Intercollegiate Specialty Examination. In such circumstances, the Examiner must contact the Head of Operations who will ensure that the appropriate action is taken to relieve the Examiner of examining duties until the matter has been resolved.

Representatives appointed to the Board are automatically appointed to the Panel of Examiners and must therefore comply with the Criteria for Appointment.
